LOCAL FFA CHAPTER ACTIVE IN DISTRICT STATE CONTESTS

F. F. A. members of the Robert E. Lee Chapter are very active in local, federation, district and state F. F. A. contests. The picture of Claude Allen Moore receiving an award at the state convention in Blacksburg last June was the climax of one of the state contests. Claude Allen was the winner of the local Farm Mechanics, the Southside District contest and the State Farm Mechanics contest. A good knowledge of shop tools, their use, and an outstanding record of repair and construction of useful farm equipment in the shop brought Claude Allen the one hundred dollar state award.

Ralph Reynolds, Floyd Fleshman Jr., and Frank Ingo, of the Appomattox F. F. A. were the top local judging team during the past year. They competed in local, federation and state dairy judging contest. They were chosen to represent the Virginia F. F. A. Association in dairy judging at the Atlantic Rural - Virginia State Fair. The team placed first in Richmond against such state teams as Maryland, Indiana, West Virginia, and South Carolina.

The local chapter placed second in the federation and district tractor driving contests. Floyd Fleshman Jr. and Wayne Moore represented the chapter in these events. Ralph Reynolds, Floyd Fleshman Jr. and Luther Reynolds paced Appomattox to first place in the federation farm mechanics contest held in December. Bobby Cheatham, Robert Beale and James Carter represented the local chapter in the Forestry Contest held at Rustburg last fall.

Bobby Barger represented the chapter as a public speaker last year. The chapter is now in the process of selecting a speaker for this year.

Home Freezer Economy

The more turnover of frozen foods in your home freezer, the greater the economy in using the appliance.

It costs more than twice as much per pound—excluding the cost of the food itself—to store 360 pounds of food for a year in a home freezer than to store and use 900 pounds from th same freezer during the year, research by the USDA shows. As more food is used and replaced in a freezer, storage costs are spread over a large number of pounds and cost per pound decreases.

Household equipment specialists in the USDA point out that certain fixed costs of freezer operation are relatively large compared to other costs—such as that for wrapping—which vary with the amount of food handled by the freezer. Whether the freezer is empty or full, researchers found that the electricity required to hold zero F. remained the same. Obviously, there is no economy in an empty or paritially empty freezer.

More research facts and figures about home freezer operation are now reported in a Department revised bulletin, "Home Freezers: Their Selection and Use." This publication was revised to meet increasing demand for freezer information.

Single copies of this bulletin, (HG 48) may be obtained free from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, 25, D. C.

Poultry Meat Color

If poultry is thoroughly roasted, why is the meat sometimes pink in color?

Many homemakers have asked this question. Now U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists at the Western Regional Research Laboratory have an answer. Studies show that certain substances in the atmosphere of any heated oven—or in the hot air over a wood fire or barbecue pit—are the same chemically as some used in the brining and smoking process that produces cured meats. These substances react with traces of hemoglobin in the meat or poultry to give a pink or reddish color.

How much of the poultry meat turns pink and how deep the color becomes depends on how hot the flame or heater is and whether the poultry roasts in an open or covered pan or is covered with aluminum foil part of the time. The age of the bird and amoun of fat in the skin also count. Because the thinner skin of young birds is more easily permeated by these substances, the flesh underneath may be noticeably pink. A point to remember: the pink color does not affect quality.

Since God has called youall home
To be with Him in heaven,

IN MEMORY

MORRIS—In memory of Luther E. Morris, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 25, 1955.

Dear Luther, the one we loved so well,
Gone but not forgotten.
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps to forget,
But time has only proven
How much we miss you yet.

We miss your bright smile,
And all your loving ways;
Yet God saw fit to take you,
And left a vacant place.
—Sadly missed by: Lula, Leslie, Carroll and Judith.

Plans Made For 4-H Week

National 4-H Club Week will be observed March 3-11. The following information about the clubs will be of interest:

1. What is the purpose of the 4-H Club? Initially, club work is designed to help young people develop desirable ideals which contribute to qualities of leadership and citizenship. Thus, the end result of all club work is the development of a more useful and desirable citizen. Moreover, club work provides opportunities to participate, to compete, to meet new friends, to improve homemaking and farming practices, to develop habits of healthful living, to develop a spirit of cooperative action, to maintain and inspire an appreciation of nature, its soil, forest and wildlife.

2. What makes up the Appomattox County 4-H Organization?

Five hundred boys and girls enrolled in 21 4-H Clubs, two of which are community clubs. These members are carrying 1,152 homemaking and agricultural projects.

3. What is the purpose of the 4-H Club project? The purpose is to aid in helping the club member prepare himself for future usefulness. Time required to complete a project may be a few weeks to an entire year. This requires responsibility and once started, parents should encourage its successful completion. In caring for the project practices are learned and the individual develops a pride of ownership. Records must be maintained which in a simpie way begins to teach business principles. The club member has an opportunity to earn money, thus helping him to recognize its value.

4. What can parents do?

Parents can help their 4-H Club member with project selection in an effort to choose one which will be practical in the farm or home program. The parent as well as the club member should become familiar with the requirements of the projects so that the parent can better assist the member to fulfill the requirements and complete the record book for the project. Parents can also do a lot toward developing leadership in his club and by encouraging him to participate in club, county and state activities, such as demonstrations, contests and camps.

Red Cross To Have County-wide Canvass

A "County-wide House to House" campaign will be conducted this year to raise funds for the American Red Cross. Many volunteer workers have been pledged to work the entire county the night of March 9th to solicit funds for the Red Cross Drive.

In past years, the Red Cross Drive has been made through the churches and genral soelicitations, but this year a concerted effort will be made to reach individuals at their homes on the night of March 9.

The quota for Appomattox County has been raised this year due to the floods, hurricanes and disasters of 1955, and funds having been depleted.

B. C. Harvey, Fund Chairman, states that this is a critical year. There are no funds on hand in case of immediate disaster. The Blood Bank Program, which is a life saving factor for every individual in the county, will not be able to go forward unless the quota in Appomattox is met.

He urges everyone to contribute to this great cause. If you cannot be at home on Friday, March 9th, have someone turn in your contribution. If this can not be done, mail contributions to: Mrs. Mary S. Hudson, Campaign Treasurer, Appomattox, Va.

Farmers Union For Farm Bill

Virginia farmers have a $17,000,000 stake in the farm bill now under consideration by the United States Senate, J. P. Harvey, president of the Appomattox County Farmers Union, said today. He said that there were three main features of the bill as reported by the Senate Agriculture Committee which, if enacted into law, would save Virginia farmers at least $17,000,000 in 1956 alone. These are (1) provisions for restoring farm price supports on the basic commodities (peanuts, corn, cotton, wheat, rice and tobacco) to 90 per cent of parity; (2) repeal of the modernized parity formula; and (3) increase in dairy supports from 75 to 80 per cent of parity.

He continued, "We in Farmers Union are going all-out to do everything possible to get this bill through the Senate, since we believe it to be in the best interest of the farmers of our state."

NEW BOOK IN THE COUNTY LIBRARY

ANDERSONVILLE by MacKinlay Kantor.

At the moment of history when Leo Tolstoy set the words into the fabric of "War and Peace," a pine forest was chopped down near Anderson Station in Sumter County, Georgia. A wooden stockade was built. There, within twenty-odd acres of habitable ground, fifty thousand men and boys suffered, died—or survived—during the next fourteen months. It was a most tragic episode in American history. MacKinlay Kantor began his study of Andersonville more than a quarter of a century ago. This mighty novel is the result.

Brush Burning Law In Effect

Beginning March 1, and extending through May 15, it will be unlawful to have an open air fire before 4:00 P. M. according to Chief Forest Warden J. L. Torrence.

During the past year there were 7 fires in Appomattox County, burning a total of 13 acres.

Mr. Torrence points that there were 258,000 seedlings planted in Appomattox County this planting season and every precaution should be taken to protect these new forest areas as well as the many thousands of acres of timberlands throughout the county.

In case of a forest fire, Mr. Torrence may be reached by calling Appomattox 3085.

Transco Seeks Authority To Boost Capacity

Houston, Texas (Special)- Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. Monday filed an application with the Federal Power Commission to expand by 105 million cubic feet the daily allocated capacity of its system. Construction would begin this summer in nine states.

Mr. Tom P. Walker, Transco president, said an early approval by the Commission would provide 80 million cubic feet of the new capacity before the 1956-57 heating season. Construction to provide the other 25 million cubic feet of proposed capacity would be completed in 1957.

Transco's allocated capacity by the 1956-57 heating season would be 785 million cubic feet daily supplemented by peak day deliveries from present storage of 136 million to total 921 million cubic feet, Mr. Walker said.

Transco sells natural gas at wholesale to utilities and to municipalities for distribution, starting in Alabama and continuing along the course of the pipe line through the Georgia - Carolinas Piedmont area and the Middle Atlantic States to New York City. More than five and one-half million families receive Transco gas in the metropolitan New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia areas.

Mr. Walker said the 1956 construction provided in the application would cost an estimated $38,500,000, which, with other projects and completion of work begun in 1955, would bring the construction outlay this year to approximately $54,000,000.

The additional capacity sought in the F. P. C. application would go to increasing deliveries to present customers and to furnishing service
